Out of Focus

A hilarious Ayckbourn-style comedy

There's trouble when a church hall is more than double booked. Confusion reigns, when a Brownie meeting, clashes with a badminton match, a talk on steam locomotives and a pantomime rehearsal, until everyone unites behind the production of the pantomime. Alliances switch as opening night approaches. A couple's marital bliss is strained by the presence of lusty Linda. Bossy Brownie leader, Helen, stages walk outs and pursues Policeman David, although he only has eyes for another. Wayne tries to impress anyone who'll listen, while nerdy Leonard bores everybody into submission. Events finally culminate at the final night party, with some justly deserved but very funny consequences.
